A TRAY COLLECTION OF INTERNATIONAL IMPORTANCE

Here are four photographs of my new 'Brewery Tray Room'. This is the 4th incarnation and it will be the last.

When I left my house in Leicestershire I had a wonderful converted cow barn which became a 'mini museum'. I had many visitors from many countries come to see the collection and TV crews ventured in on no less than five occasions.

I was devastated when I had to forfeit this unique set-up. Due to the illness of my wife we had to downsize.

The good news is that the 'mini museum' (a converted garage) has been reborn and I am told it is as good as the last. Six months in the making it is now a reality.

For those members who don't know, I have Britain's biggest collection of pre-1970s brewery trays. I have 1200+ dating from the 1870s to the 1960s.

On display are circa 300 trays, 90%+ of which are pre-war. I only have about 15 post-war trays on display.

Any member who would like to come and see my collection in Rutland is most welcome. Just give me a call on 07715 369 540 and I'd be glad for them to see a unique piece of brewery heritage

Cheers - Richard Percival
